6. How We Elect the President: Electoral College
What is the Electoral College?

• Process established by the founding fathers in the U.S. Constitution

• A compromise between election of the President by Congress vs. popular vote
  • The Electoral College consists of 538 electors (270 needed to win)

• Each candidate running for President has their group of electors
  • When you vote for President, you are voting for your chosen candidate’s electors.
Allocation of Electors to States

Number of Senators
(Always 2)

Number of House Districts
(Population Based)

Arizona will have 11 Electors in 2020
How States Allocate Electoral Votes

• Maine and Nebraska:
  • One electoral vote to the candidate who has the most votes in each congressional district
  • The remaining two electoral votes to the candidate who finishes first statewide

• All other states have a winner-takes-all allocation
  • You win the state popular vote, you get all of the electoral votes
Arguments for the Electoral College

- President chosen by the “best of the best”
  - President will be a person of “ability and virtue”
- Not tied to pandering to the public for election or re-election
  - Can have the Nation’s best interest at heart
- Small group can easily debate the merits of each potential candidate for the Presidency
Arizona’s Electoral College Meeting

• Participating party candidates are selected in the PPE
  • Parties nominate presidential electors to appear on general election ballot for their candidate
  • Represent party stalwarts
• Electors meet on the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December (12/14/2020)
  • Sworn in by the Secretary of State
  • Each signs an official certificate of the vote
National Electoral Vote Allocation - 2020

• A candidate needs 270 to win
• Arizona has 11 electoral votes
  • We tie for 14th most with Indiana, Massachusetts, and Tennessee
• California has 55 electoral votes, Texas 38, and Florida and New York have 29
• Alaska, Delaware, District of Columbia, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont, Wyoming each only have 3 electoral votes
Electoral College Reform
Proposals and Controversies
Reforms Introduced into Congress

District System
- Allocate electoral votes by district in all States like Maine and Nebraska

Proportional System
- Allocate electoral votes by proportion of popular vote won in the State

Automatic System
- Popular vote system automatically wins 100% of electoral votes in the State
National Popular Vote Interstate Compact

Award all electoral votes to the candidate who wins the popular vote nationwide.

Goes into effect when states totaling 270 electoral votes adopt the legislation.

Arizona has not passed this legislation.
“Faithless” Electors

• Do Electors have to cast their vote to reflect State’s popular vote?
• Possibly to be considered by the Supreme Court this term
• Washington State Supreme Court—Must be faithful
• Federal 10th Circuit—Electors can use their discretion
Final Thoughts

• Election officials provide infrastructure
  • We can’t make you mail back a ballot or go to the polls.
  • It’s up to you make your voice heard!

• You can help get others to participate in our democracy.
  • ASK them to vote and ask them face to face
  • PEER PRESSURE: “I know that Sue, Jose, and I are all voting early on Tuesday.”
  • CHECKING UP: “I will text you to see how your voting experience went!”
